this systematic introduction to the concept of point of view in language explores the ways in which point of view intersects with and is shaped by ideology it specifically focuses on the way in which speakers and writers linguistically encode their beliefs interests and biases in a wide range of media the book draws on an extensive array of linguistic theories and frameworks and each chapter includes a self contained introduction to a particular topic in linguistics allowing easy reference the author uses examples from a variety of literary and non literary text types such as narrative fiction advertisements and newspaper reports

this book focuses on ideology and its function in fictional discourse exploring the link between textual ideologies and real ideologies in text production environments it attempts this through a specific focus on the social and linguistic elements that control the presence the use and the presentation of ideology and also the way in which linguistic elements are controlled and manipulated by the collective consciousness of the text producer this correlation between fictional discourse and ideology is revealed through a series of chapters that cover four closely interrelated areas focusing specifically on Malaysian and Singaporean fiction firstly the positioning of Malaysian and Singaporean literatures in English as individual literary traditions this is to counter the non recognition of Malaysian and Singaporean literatures as individual traditions in spite of five decades of independence secondly establishing a contextual socio cultural and political framework as a basis for discussion on real ideology arguing that Malaysian and Singaporean writers have moved beyond the anti western nationalistic stage and on to more personal and communal concerns such as race relations identity and a sense of belonging thirdly rationalising the social structures of ideology that are likely to be found in the Malaysian and Singaporean social milieus especially location and text specific social variables of ideology lastly it seeks to reveal a linguistic oriented approach for the study of textual ideologies and for linking textual ideologies to ideologies in the overall text production environment the book ultimately shows the significant possibilities of systematic links between textual ideology and the real ideology in the text production environment through what can best be termed as ideological stylistics in doing so it aims to contribute significantly to studies of ideology in general and more specifically on ideology on Malaysian and Singaporean literatures in English in this study arguments are put forward for the thesis that biblical exegesis of the old testament prophetic literature is not a simple matter of interpreting texts but is also a process in which logical models or possible worlds are constructed to accommodate the validity of particular interpretations the lack of a model theoretical orientation to old testament methodological approaches has led to a situation in which the criticism of particular theories rarely addresses the real points of disagreement between scholars one theory is simply set against another even though the theories would be more effectively evaluated by discussing the validity and relevance of the different models in which they are framed there are various plausible and relevant models available for the interpretation of old testament texts in order to compare these different models a metalogical system charles sanders peirce s semiotics has been used throughout this study many important methodological issues are discussed in this study a drawing upon critical social theorists like habermas depth psychologists like jung and phenomenologists like hussert denhardts shows how the ethic of organization inhibits the individual s search for meaning and then discusses strategies for enhancing the individual s role he champions independence expressiveness and creativity over discipline regulation and obedience eight prominent scholars consider whether louis hartz s interpretation of liberalism in his classic 1955 book should be repudiated or updated and whether a study of america as a liberal society is still a rewarding undertaking
